From the Rector

Dear Friends,

A few years ago I was taken into a classroom in a secondary school which happened to be ruled over by a maths teacher. Around the top of the wall, all the way around, was a banner with a quote on it which said in six inch high letters (15 centimetres for the children who are studying maths in the room today):

“We do not study mathematics because it is useful, we study mathematics because it is a constant source of awe and wonder.”

I've tried to find out where the quote comes from, but have never been able to find it. However the quote has stuck with me. It has stuck because it is so against the culture of our day, and so expressive of the sort of values we have as Christians.

There has been an increasing push over recent years to measure things by how useful they are. Education is measured by how much employers like it, how much it helps us into work, and into a productive future. Beautiful things are measured by how much money they might realise (look how many programmes on the telly are about the value of antiques.) Values and relationships become subservient to the desire to enhance status, wealth and position (just watch the Apprentice on the telly!!) And it is part of church life too. How much more important are events seen to be in church life when they are useful to keeping our church going, keeping our buildings up?

And yet there is an emptiness in all of that, a lack of awe and wonder. A lack of willingness to see things which cause us awe and wonder. A loss of the capacity to experience awe and wonder at what we see around us. At best “Awe and wonder” become secondary in our world to usefulness. And perhaps it is because of our inability to be moved to awe and wonder that Jesus makes little sense to us, little impact to us.

It's the complete opposite in our Christian faith. We are people of awe and wonder. There is an awe and wonder within the God-centred person at the world around us. Sometimes we take it for granted, but every time I drive or walk anywhere around Kirkintilloch and Lenzie and the surrounding area I am left stunned by the beauty of this place—I have never lived anywhere as beautiful.

More importantly, it is only when we have a sense of awe and wonder that we can see Jesus, or at least see who Jesus is. Almost everyone has heard that Jesus rose from the dead. Still in schools today Jesus is taught. Certainly for the older generation, school and

Magazine & DNS Deadline

The next issue of Cyprian Life should be available in Church on Sunday 29th September 2013. The deadline for material is 15th September and the magazine will cover October and November 2013.

Please pass notes, articles, photographs and anything else that may be of interest to other members of the congregation to me by the deadline in order to give time for typesetting and printing. Electronic format is preferred since this is usually quicker and more accurate.

Please let me know about what is important to you. It is great to be able to report family events and things happening in our local community. Thank you.

News from around the Diocese of Glasgow and Galloway is available in the Diocesan News, which can be downloaded from the diocesan website: www.glasgow.anglican.org

Click on the link on the home page to access the current and earlier editions. If you don't have Internet access, but would like to read DNS, printed copies are available at the back of the Church with this magazine.

Diocesan News is published ten times per year. If you have items that would be of interest across the Diocese, please send them to the Diocesan News editor, Susi Cormack Brown, e-mail: dns@episcopalglasgow.co.uk or by post to c/o Glasgow & Galloway Diocesan Centre, 5 St Vincent Place, Glasgow G1 2DH. Please send in prose text, i.e. not leaflets, adverts, posters or PDFs. The deadline for the October issue will be Monday 16th September 2013.

The views expressed in Cyprian Life and the Diocesan News are not necessarily those of the Editor of either publication or the Scottish Episcopal Church.

church and Sunday school were very important, yet so many today have no realisation of Jesus in their lives. Somehow that awe and wonder that a man would rise from the dead isn't there. So many people have heard or read the words of Jesus from the cross when he said "Father forgive them they don't know what they are doing," yet the amazing reality of a man who could forgive his own murderers doesn't touch the hearts of many of those who hear. Many have heard of the amazing events of Pentecost, when tongues of fire came on a bunch of losers hiding in an upper room, transforming them into men who transformed the world. And yet, it doesn't "punch" us in our spirit.

Perhaps we need to be people who preach the need for awe and wonder, who seek the sense of awe and wonder, who live in awe and wonder, because then we will know, we will

Reminder

We plan to celebrate the 140th anniversary of the church on St. Cyprian's day—or at least the Sunday closest to St. Cyprian's day—15th September, we will be joined by Bishop Gregor who will be leading our worship.

Please put the date in your diary. We would also like to invite past members and friends to join us, so if you know of anyone, please let Les, our Rector, have their name and address.

If you would like to add an event to the Link and/or the website, please email the details to link@stcyprianslenzie.com or phone Kathryn Potts on 0141 578 0734.

Pastoral Care

One of the important purposes of Christ's church is to provide the love and care we all need.

If you, or anyone you know, would like a visit from a priest or the opportunity for a confidential chat and a prayer, please contact the Revd. Les Ireland, who will be happy to help in any way he can.

St. Cyprian's also has a number of people who are authorised to visit and simply be a trusted friend who can be there to listen if you wish. Les can put you in touch with an appropriate person that may be best qualified to help. Please telephone Les on 0141-776 3866.

Making Our Church More Inviting

Earlier this year we consulted widely in church about the changes we have now made at the back of the church, where we cleared a lot of the junk, moved the furniture around a little, and removed 5 pews. At that stage there wasn't a single objector and the Vestry voted unanimously to make the changes. We were granted "temporary experimental permission" by the Diocese to make the changes for 9 months. That permission runs out in December.

We now need to apply, if we should, to make the changes permanent.

What we are proposing to apply for is:

Firstly, for the furnishings at the back of the church to remain as they are at the moment.

Secondly, that we need to dispose of 5 pews. I hope that at least three of these will remain in the church grounds, particularly in the area of the garden of remembrance for those who would like to spend time there. It will mean disposing of two pews. We would search through the pews in church to decide which are in worst condition—some are in quite a bad state.

Thirdly, the carpet at the back of the church is in poor condition. We would replace only the carpet at the back of the church with perhaps a darker carpet, perhaps to contrast effectively with the red that will remain in the remainder of the church—probably deciding on colour by a vote of the congregation.

If you have any comments or questions about what we are suggesting, please have a word with the rector or the vestry secretary.

Through new eyes

The Capital of Scotland!

Well, you take your choice! Is Kirkintilloch the “Canal Capital of Scotland,” or the “Charity Shop Capital of Scotland?” I’ve heard both terms bandied around since I’ve been here—the former in an attempt to “big up” our town, mainly for tourism; the latter by locals “dissing” our town!

Well, both descriptions do represent an element of truth. We do have a great canal going right through the middle of our town, and we do have a marina, and we do have a “Canal Festival.” And we do have quite a few charity shops, as most places do these days. Sadly, charity shops are seen throughout the UK as a symptom of High Streets that are struggling or in decline, a result of the credit crunch and changing shopping patterns.

So, is Kirkintilloch the Capital of Scotland? Some, I know, might claim Edinburgh, which has a festival as well (although not based on a canal) and is trying to put a tram in place, but why not—I will say it—Kirkintilloch and Lenzie is my capital!!!

I live here. I shop here. I worship here. I walk around here. I enjoy the natural life of the area. I go to the charity shops here. I talk to people here. I drive around here. I walk along the canal towpath. For me Lenzie and Kirkintilloch is my capital. I know we don’t have great theatres, or Holyrood House (the council offices on Southbank are not quite the same); we don’t have a tram, or a volcanic hill with a castle on top. But Kirkintilloch is my capital.

Perhaps I need to define what my view of a capital is. Or perhaps I should not use the word looking at the locale through the eyes of a recent incomer!

capital, but use the phrase “The place that is most important to me.” Forget the very old joke which says “What is the capital of Scotland?” Answer—“The letter S!” The place that is most important to me—Lenzie/Kirkintilloch.

The truth for many is that we live significant parts of our lives elsewhere. We may work or shop in Glasgow. We may visit family elsewhere. We may get irritated by the number of charity shops. We may not even notice the canal most of the time. We may choose to do our walking well out of the town. However, for most of us Lenzie/Kirkintilloch is the most important place for us.

A few years ago I had a sabbatical—a break in ministry for three months, and spent it looking at how we meet God in the world around us, and in what is considered “Sacred Places.” It was a good excuse to travel to all sorts of beautiful places. I spent a few days at Whithorn. I spent three weeks on the Isle of Lindisfarne. I spent some time at Walsingham, the pilgrimage site in Norfolk. I visited a Schoenstadt Shrine in Manchester, and another shrine in Bala, mid Wales. And the truth was—as much as I enjoyed visiting places, I never really experienced God in any of them (perhaps with the exception of Walsingham). The truth was—I encountered God most in the place where I lived, amongst the people I worshipped with. What going to all these places showed me, looking back to home from elsewhere, is that “home” is where God was most profoundly met for me.

That is perhaps why Kirkintilloch/Lenzie is the capital. It is the place, amongst brothers and sisters in Christ, where I meet and enjoy and learn about our God most. And perhaps, the place where I SHOULD expect to meet God most. It just takes eyes and heart to see.

As a priest, over the years, you come across what I sometimes describe as “Grass is Greener” Christians. They are more than happy to tell you how wonderful things are somewhere else! How “they” are doing so much more and doing it better than we are! It may be in another church, or festival, or country, or in the past. Well, praise God if God is blessing them and working through those Christians. However that doesn’t take away our responsibility—to expect to meet and learn about and encounter the living God here. Once we turn our eyes away from those over the hill, and start to see Lenzie/Kirkintilloch as our capital, then surprise surprise—we start to see God, and God is able to do great things HERE!!!

Space Academy

This was the title of this year's Lenzie Churches Holiday Club. It had a space theme and explored the early chapters of Daniel in the Old Testament. The connection? Daniel was so far from home that it was like us exploring outer space.

We transformed Lenzie Union Parish church halls with lights, stars, astronauts, a mission control centre and tried to give a feeling of being in outer space itself with planets surrounding us. Sounds mission impossible! It was hard to accomplish, but with determination and working well into the small hours of Monday morning, we managed to achieve our vision.

We invite primary school children to experience God in an interactive environment. In total, 107 children came, 95 of whom attended two or more days, along with 12 under 18 years leaders and 29 adult leaders.

Each day was filled with indoor and outdoor games, crafts, music and drama, tuck, singing songs, telling jokes, shake 'n' wake exercises, bible teaching, and not forgetting the ever popular messy games. Buzz Brian, our resident astronaut, gave us interesting scientific facts about space and astronauts.

The story of Daniel is one of challenge, danger, courage and facing the unknown. He has to make difficult choices, combat enemies, understand dreams and work miracles all the time. He and his friends stood up for their faith in a foreign land, which was as different and challenging for them as living on another planet would be for us, and God was faithful to them and helped them through.

There was a video presentation of the story available, but I preferred to get the children (p1 & p2 group) interacting with the story. On Wednesday, we were discussing how Daniel's friends would not worship a golden statue. We discovered it was 27 metres high, 3 metres wide. I gave them a metre of ribbon each (below). The children made a line holding on to their piece of ribbon. The expressions on their faces remain with me now as they realised how tall this statue was and wondered why people worshiped it (a child's comment). When I then told them Meshach, Abednego and Shadrach were thrown in the fire, two children quickly said that God was with them. He sent an angel like he does today. Their faith and understanding is wonderful!

The atmosphere of the club is second to none. Everyone, children and leaders, had such a positive, fun-loving attitude. The teamwork throughout the week proudly demonstrated the work of God in our community. It gave each child a week they will remember.

Every day, the leaders (above), who come from the three Lenzie churches and some from further afield, had a time of spiritual preparation as a group before the club started and fellowship at the end of the day—sharing many a laugh about the day's events—something we all valued.

We're very grateful for the visits by the community police, which enabled the children to speak to them and see a police car, and by St Andrew's First Aid, who provided our first aid cover and brought along an ambulance that they showed the children around.

On Friday night, we had a family night service where the children's parents and relatives joined us to see and be involved in what we did and learned about Daniel during the holiday club. They joined in the songs (also memory verses John 3:16 and John 8:12. which are exceedingly moving), games and drama. The evening closed with everyone saying the Grace holding hands followed by fellowship and refreshments.

Each year I feel truly privileged to be part of such a strong group and I would like to take this opportunity to thank each of the leaders involved this year. Without each individual's help and devotion, this club would not be possible. Sincerely I thank you—you are shining stars in this planet !!!!

As our memory verse said "Trust in the Lord with all your heart, never rely on what you think you know, remember the Lord in everything you do and he will show you the right way" (Proverbs 3:5 & 6).

Daniel never doubted God and totally relied on Him. We discovered at the club a God who is wise, powerful mighty and, above all else, a God who is interested in helping us. A wonderful loving gift to us all. Amen

A Great Hero.....

Recently in a sermon I mentioned that one of my heroes is Henry Francis Lyte, who penned two of the best known hymns ever written. It was clear that no-one in church had the foggiest idea who he was, and what hymns he wrote!!! I thought I should tell a bit of his story. But perhaps first to say that one of those two hymns is “Praise My Soul the King of Heaven.”

Henry Lyte was a great poet, a member of a group known as the Anglican Divines—Anglican leaders of the 18th and 19th centuries who were also great authors, poets and hymn writers.

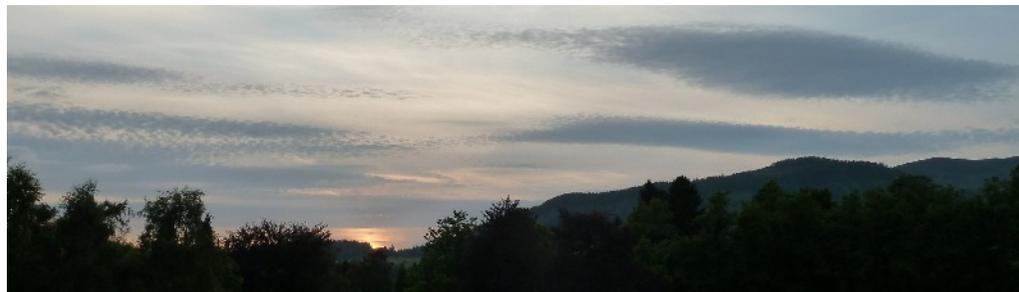

Henry Lyte was born in 1793 in Kelso. Henry’s father placed him in a boarding school in Eniskillin in Northern Ireland and promptly disappeared to Jersey with Henry’s older brother never to be heard of again! Shortly after that, Henry’s mother and younger brother disappeared to London, and were assumed to have died—never heard of again. At age 9, Henry was left penniless at the school. Luckily for Henry the head teacher saw his great ability, so took him into his own home and paid for him to go through school and attend Trinity College in Dublin. He was ordained in 1815.

Henry ministered as curate in a number of churches, before taking over All Saints Church in Lower Brixham in Torbay in 1824. He remained there until his death in 1847. The light work load and good climate at Lower Brixham suited Henry Lyte—he suffered from chronic asthma and Bronchitis, illnesses which became gradually worse through his life, causing him to spend increasing time on the continent trying to find relief. He was lucky to have married a wealthy wife who helped to finance the trips!

Academically Henry Lyte was brilliant—he spoke a number of classical languages, enjoyed literature and collected books, played the flute and was an expert on flowers! However, he was also known as someone with the popular touch, and was a particular favourite with the South Devon fishermen. He is remembered with huge affection in Brixham.

In 1847 he spent most of the summer in Brixham unable to work and realised he

We'll be starting our new session on 11th September. As has become our custom we will start the year with a Eucharist (in St Cyprian's) and joint meeting with the Branches at Cumbernauld and Bishopbriggs, so look out for more information nearer the time.

Planning is underway for next year's programme, so look out for leaflets at the back of the church, and do come and give us a try—we are a very social group and you don't have to be a mother or even a female to join with us.

Maxine Gow
Branch Leader

We all know it is expensive to run a church. Cost of ministry and maintaining buildings and church life is high. One way churches can benefit is if members leave the church something in their wills, perhaps as a thanksgiving for the part the church has played in their lives through the years.

If you have made a will, or are thinking of making a will, please consider putting in your will a legacy to our church, to help sustain the church into our future. It would be great to know the church is still here, still ministering long after we've moved on to "better things!"

Many thanks

couldn't continue in ministry because of his health. In the September he preached a final sermon on the Holy Communion, and the following day left for France, dying weeks later in Nice, where he is buried.

On his final evening in Brixham it is said he sat on the balcony of his vicarage watching the sunset, realising this was the end of his ministry, that he may never see his wife and family again after he left. It is said he sat on the balcony and penned his most famous hymn. And it included the verses:

I fear no foe, with Thee at hand to bless;
Ills have no weight, and tears no bitterness.
Where is death's sting? Where, grave, thy victory?
I triumph still, if Thou abide with me.

Hold Thou Thy cross before my closing eyes;
Shine through the gloom and point me to the skies.
Heaven's morning breaks, and earth's vain shadows flee;
In life, in death, O Lord, abide with me.

From that evening the hymn "Abide with me" was born, perhaps one of the most amazing poems in the whole of our hymn books. In that one hymn alone, crafted from his experiences, Henry Lyte has left behind a legacy that has been part of the lifeblood of both the Christian and secular worlds ever since.

How does Moses make his tea? Hebrews it.

What do you call a dinosaur with an extensive vocabulary? A thesaurus.

I did a theatrical performance about puns. It was a play on words.
